We recently had a Giallo Veneziano countertop installed. When the undercounter lighting is on, in particular, the whole countertop has a "crazed" look to the counter. We paid for the middle grade - over $4000 - but it looks flawed to me. I don't know much about granite, but our contractor said it's just the natural stone. I'd appreciate your thoughts. Thanks - Barbara

Dear Barbara:

Middle grade can be like that â€“ especially that particular stone (garnet gneiss). Well, at least is a good thing that they disclosed the grading to you!

Now remember, it's never too early to think about the proper maintenance of your stone. The issue of what you'll be doing day in and day out to your stone is â€“ as it should be intuitive â€“ vastly more important than its sealing (if and when possible and/or advisable) and it's all too often neglected. As you can tell by reading many of this site's postings, you're not likely to get good information about routine care from your dealer or installer. Don't become another statistic! By logging into the Helpful Hints section of our website at: http://www.mbstone.com/HH_promo/helpful_hints.htm, you will be able to get the short version of our maintenance guidelines at no charge. The full version of it â€“ a 7-page document considered by many as an industry benchmark â€“ is available in pay-per-download format in our Educational Literature section at: <http://www.mbstone.com/literature/literature.htm>.

And remember, every single penny of the cost of the literature will be used to support this site and its cause: your cause.

While you are in the â€œHelpful Hintsâ€• section, do spend some time reading all of the interesting FREE articles you'll find in there!

Finally, keep in mind that we need your support to help us helping you!
