Dear Dorothy:

If you have iron in your water everything will get stained by it. Your "solution" makes sense! J

And, in a case like this it also make sense to apply an impregnating sealer to your tiles like MB-4: it won't solve the problem completely but it should help.
