Hi Maurizio. I was thinking about a new stone floor in my kitchen. I have been looking at a tumbled marble that resembles a limestone. But also wondering if i should just use limestone. I will be doing them in a cobble stone pattern on the floor. My question is which is a better product. Lime stone or a tumbled marble? Can you please advise. ThanksBrad.

Dear Brad:

Tumbled marble across the board!

You may want to consider treating it with a good-quality stone color enhancer/impregnator, like MB-6.
