

Jurasic black Granite

Authored by: Stu Rosen [mailto:mail@stoneshine.com]

Saved From: <https://marblecleaning.org/knowledgebase/article.php?id=1788>

Q.I had black jurasic granite installed in my bathroom, and the red palidio in my kitchen. I love the kitchen but the black jurasic not sso much. Is there any way of adding color to this. If it can be stained I thought that maybe there were products that were used to adjust the color. I just need a little something. It has large areas of white and cream stone. I really messed up by not using all the same granite. This is in our cabin and the palidio is perfect. Thank you for any help or suggestions. Eileen

A. Hello Eileen-You have a wonderful very funky countertop that will never need to be sealed and is acid resistant as well.Maybe you didnt pick the best color slab but am sorry I dont think you can change the color.Maybe you could change the lighting in the bathroom.

My wifes sister recently purchased granite that she said was a different color after it was installed.

Her husband seemed to correct the problem with a daily martini recipe before dinner that seemed to even out the color quite nicely.I think I may consider using his recipe right here at home myself.We just painted our home,the wife picked out all the colors and on the walls well they look different to her.Yep I am off to the market right now.

Stu Rosen

www.mbstone.com

www.stoneshine.com