Q. I have an old marble lamp that belonged to my parents. It has been in storage many years and now some areas of the lamp seem to be "pitted". In those areas it is rough to the touch and almost looks like the marble finish is gone. Is there a product I can use to try to restore it?

A. Not Really. Do yourself a favor and call a bona fide stone refinisher. He or she will be able to restore the lamp close to its original condition.

Find one in your area at www.stoneandtilepros.com.
