I have a question about filler they use to fill holes in Travertine. Will the filler fell out over the time if the Travertine tiles are installed in the entrance of the house. Regards Waldemar

Dear Waldemar:

If the travertine tiles are of a good grading and the filling was done right by the factory, the answer to your question is, no, the filler will not come off.

Maybe one or two occasionally, but that's about it.
