

List of stones not suitable for water-line in pool

Authored by: Maurizio Bertoli [mailto:mail@mbstone.com]

Saved From: <https://marblecleaning.org/knowledgebase/article.php?id=732>

Maurizio I'm thinking of using a natural stone for the water line in our pool. Is there any stone that I should cross of my list because of freezing, chemicals, etc. Thx, Jim

Dear Jim:

Unfortunately, even if you decide to use our 1-on-1 consultation service and pay the small fee required, I could not afford to list you approximately 3000 stones or so.

The list of the stones that would qualify is much shorter, but I think that, in consideration of the fact that I would be doing someone that you don't trust (the stone dealers) a big favor, so that eventually one of them can smile all the way to the bank with your money in their pocket, it's only fair that you use our convenient "1-on-1" consultation service that's available in the http://www.mbstone.com/training/training_and_consultation.htm. Bear in mind that by purchasing that service you will be supporting the cause of this site, which is your cause, because not a single penny of the consultation fee will end up in the pockets of any of the experts participating to this forum. All money will be reinvested for the promotion of the site, which represents your only possible tool to have your voice heard within the stone industry.

I hope you can appreciate that.

Also, will you please read and e-sign our Statement of Purpose at: <http://www.marblecleaning.org/purpose.htm>

By spreading the word about this valuable site among your friend & family and the stone trades' people you've been dealing with, you will be rendering everybody a valuable service!

Thank you

Ciao and good luck,

Maurizio Bertoli

www.marblecleaning.org "The only Consumers' Portal to the Stone Industry Establishment!"