Hello Maurizio, we just had new countertop installed today. I'd like to ask what and which products I should use first. The countertop haven't been sealed yet, so what I should use first and then every day cleaning? and my other question is if I could use acetone in order to clean the remaining caulking? Thank You very much for answer. Jana

Dear Jana:

You were jealous and you wanted to copy me, huh!... (I have Black Galaxy in my kitchen for over 11 years! J)

Scrape the worse of the caulking residue with a razor blade (don't worry, there's no way you can scratch that something!) and then you can finish the job with acetone.

After that, it's an easy street for you baby! Good-quality Black Galaxy is among the most maintenance-easy, virtually bullet-proof material that money can buy!

Just a good quality stone spray cleaner like MB-5 and a little bit of a good stone polish like MB-13 every now and then to spruce it up and keep fingerprints at bay, is all you'll ever need.

Enjoy! J
