

mbcare disinfectant spray cleaner

Authored by: Maurizio Bertoli [mail@mbstone.com]

Saved From: <https://marblecleaning.org/knowledgebase/article.php?id=923>

---

I bought a few months ago, MB15? (Disinfectant countertop spray cleaner) . Has it been discontinued. I really liked it!!!

Dear Patron:

â€œ I really liked it!!! â€•

And so did my marketing department: we could not bottle that stuff fast enough!

Unfortunately for them, I'm not a salesman. I am a guy with a mission: offer consumers of stone the best and safest products for the care of their investments. The concern about the consumers (our customers) comes always first and our bottom line is far second, as long as I run the company.

I had the strong suspicion that disinfectant/cleaners in general were dangerous products. (See free article on disinfectant/cleaners in the Helpful Hints section of my website at:

http://www.mbstone.com/HH\_promo/helpful\_hints.htm.) Recently further mounting new evidence strongly point in that direction and confirms my suspicion. Even if the proof is not completely in the pudding yet, I decided that the risk to my customers was too high and that I didn't want to have any part in it any longer.

My wife and I seldom used it and always followed the direction printed on the bottle to the letter (did you?...). Now we don't use it anymore. MB-5 gives us all the cleaning power we will ever care about, and in the occasional case of a â€œbloodyâ€• mess when handling raw meat on our countertop, a mild solution of Hydrogen Peroxide will do all the disinfecting that we need and then some.

Ciao and good luck,

Maurizio Bertoli